The problem is not with raspbian, it's in the interaction between transmission ans systemd. The latter considers the network to be up, and tells transmission-daemon to start. Transmission cannot start the RPC listener for the web ui, because the network is not properly up yet, by its definition of "up".

Totally doable. I have a 2014 Mazda 3, with proximity key and push start, and a manual transmission. The Mazda dealer told me the same and said it wasn't possible. I called an auto accessory shop in town that also installs auto-starts, and they said it was no problem. They installed a 2-way viper auto-start in my vehicle. Here is how it works:

Can I get a Remote Car Starter on A Manual Transmission? Transmission is an excellent solution for torrenting on the Raspberry Pi. It is a relatively light client that is designed to use fewer resources than other torrent clients such as Deluge. The lower resource usage allows Transmission to make the most out of the Raspberry Pi's modest processing power.

How to Setup Transmission on the Raspberry Pi - Pi My Life Up

Transmission The BitTorrent protocol can be used to reduce the server and network impact of distributing large files. Rather than downloading a file from a single source server, the BitTorrent protocol allows users to join a "swarm" of hosts to download and upload from each other simultaneously. Transmission is designed for easy, powerful use.
