Parents need to know that Pax, by Sara Pennypacker is the story of a deeply bonded 12-year-old boy and his pet fox caught up in an increasingly dystopian nightmare. It begins with an act of betrayal as the boy's father forces him to abandon the fox and compellingly describes the two friends' struggle to find each other and make things right.

Peter ventures out into the snow and marvels at the tracks he makes, the snowman he builds, and the angels he imprints in the snow. He doesn ' t even mind being hit by a snowball! This Caledcott-winning book is among the first to depict a multicultural family in an urban setting engaging in everyday activities and is considered a groundbreaking achievement.
